ZODIAC EXCURSIONS | KAYAKING | HIKING | PHOTOGRAPHY
UNDERSEA ADVENTURES | CULTURAL ENCOUNTERS

Hiking, kayaking, and snorkeling: on a Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic voyage, these activities are more than just simple excursions. They are the essential elements of exploration, working together to give our guests an in-depth experience. No matter which of our activities you choose, you get a more complete picture of your destination—and each can be customized to your interests so you can explore your way, every day.

A family of five sets out on a hike across windswept South Georgia.

BASECAMP

Small Ships Built for Exploration

Your adventure begins the moment you step aboard one of our purpose-built ships, where state-of-the-art exploration tools and comfortable accommodations come together to form the heart of your expedition experience.

The expedition ships in the Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic fleet were built for the thrill of discovery, their every element engineered to take travelers deeper into our destinations. Each vessel's nimble build was specially designed to reach remote places, while features like customized Zodiac platforms allow for quick disembarkation and more exploration. With capacities that never exceed 148 guests, our ships ensure a more intimate, immersive experience amid our wild surroundings.

Certain destinations are best discovered aboard bespoke vessels that evoke the splendor of their historic ports of call. In timeless places from the Amazon to the Mediterranean, we handpick ships that are uniquely suited to their surroundings and fully charter them just for our travel groups.

Whether you're sailing one of our capable expedition ships in Costa Rica or stepping aboard a purpose-built charter ship in Scotland, each of our vessels embodies its own spirit of discovery. Most ships feature a comprehensive suite of exploration tools, as well as onboard amenities and accommodations that reflect the sights, sounds, and flavors of your destination.

Clockwise from top left: A custom Zodiac platform designed to expedite the boarding process; the Delfin II, our charter ship in the Amazon, is a member of the prestigious Relais & Châteaux hotel group; National Geographic Quest pulls up next to a coastal waterfall in Alaska; a guest on the bow of National Geographic Orion is showered with the spray of a waterfall in the Norwegian fjords.

ZODIAC EXCURSIONS

Coastal Discovery Up Close

Our fleet of small, motorized Zodiacs is the key to unlocking wonders hidden in the places we explore. These durable, stable boats put you right on the water's surface—often several times a day during your voyage—so that you can experience the marine world at eye level. Step aboard and be whisked away to quiet coves and narrow channels that lie beyond the reach of larger vessels.

Our efficient, meticulously honed deployment system allows us to board Zodiacs spontaneously when nature beckons—like if a pod of whales appears, or we spy the entrance to an enticing sea cave. Each ride accommodates just ten guests and is navigated by a highly experienced driver and an expert naturalist, who helps interpret your wild surroundings.

Zodiac excursions are designed for small groups and accompanied by seasoned drivers and expert naturalists, allowing our guests to satisfy their curiosities about the natural wonders we witness on the water.

KAYAKING & PADDLEBOARDING

Paddle Into the Wilderness

Kayaks and paddleboards offer the chance to slow down for intimate exploration of the places we visit. Glide across calm waters as you soak in the stillness of nature, completely immersed in the beauty of your surroundings—whether it's the towering cliffs of a Norwegian fjord or an icy sculpture garden in the Arctic.

Paddle sports have been a fixture of our expeditions for decades, and we pioneered kayaking in epic places like Antarctica to give guests a new perspective on our destinations. We've perfected our safety procedures to make these excursions appropriate for all skill levels; beginners can opt to stay close to guiding naturalists, while more experienced paddlers can feel confident venturing further afield, even in the wildest of places. Choose a single craft or pick a partner and go tandem, then set out for a personal experience in nature.*

Clockwise from top left: A pair of paddleboarders glide into a quiet cove in Baja California; tandem kayakers take in the sights of Galápagos at sea level; Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic pioneered polar kayaking in Antarctica after years of intensive study and planning.

*Kayaking and paddleboarding are available on select voyages. See expedition itineraries for details.

PHOTOGRAPHY

Capture the Moment

Photography unveils new avenues for exploration in our dynamic destinations, where a captivating subject could cross your path at any moment. It's a true thrill to capture 'the shot' of a humpback whale breaching or an ancient Egyptian temple at golden hour—and on every departure of our voyages, Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic certified photo instructors are on hand to help make it happen.

These visual storytellers travel by your side and at your service, sharing in the journey as they offer photo tips in real time for everyone from smartphone camera users to advanced hobbyists. National Geographic Photography Experts also join select voyages, including each departure of our dedicated photography expeditions. They are among the most esteemed photographers in the world, and they are engaging instructors with riveting stories from their time in the field.

Our immersive photography program involves more than just field shoots—lessons learned on the ground are enhanced on board through informative presentations, helpful one-on-one critiques, and engaging slideshow events. Select ships in our fleet are also equipped with an OM System Photo Gear Locker, stocked with best-in-class, lightweight gear, including camera equipment, lenses, and binoculars that you can test while you're out exploring.

HIKING & WALKING

Step Into Adventure

During our time ashore, we find adventure on foot, heading deeper inland in search of terrestrial treasures. Exploring at eye level, we can experience the land with all our senses, taking the time to touch the velvety moss that carpets an Alaskan forest or listen to the steady drumbeat of a frigatebird's call as it resonates through the Galápagos.

Each walk or hike is guided by one of our experts—such as a naturalist or Lindblad Expeditions–National Geographic certified photo instructor—who draws your attention to the fascinating details that tell the story of your destination. In places with a rich human story, our walks are often led by cultural specialists or historians, who help us understand how local traditions and customs were shaped by our incredible surroundings.

UNDERSEA ADVENTURES

Uncover Marine Wonders

On a planet where nearly every inch of land has been mapped, few places offer the potential for true exploration like the underwater world. Our undersea adventures reveal a window onto oceans of the past, taking you far from the overcrowded hotspots to pristine seas where we encounter thriving coral gardens and charismatic species. Snorkel or dive among swirling schools of fluorescent fish, massive manta rays, or somersaulting sea lions. Most ships provide a full complement of gear, including dedicated masks, fins, and wetsuits—all fit to you.*

An undersea specialist often accompanies our voyages; they bring your destination's marine wonders to the surface, capturing underwater footage in places from Alaska to Antarctica and beyond. Images are shared during nightly recaps in the comfort of the ship's lounge, where our specialist interprets sea creatures and geological features, offering insights that are integral to the story of your destination.

Clockwise from top left: Exploring an ethereal underwater grotto in Makatea, French Polynesia; undersea specialists deploy an ROV to collect footage of the marine realm; a snorkeler swims with a sea lion in the Galápagos.

*Snorkeling and scuba diving are available on select voyages. See expedition itineraries for details.

CULTURAL ENCOUNTERS

Make Meaningful Connections Across the Globe

For as long as Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic has ventured to wild places by small ship, we have also explored the cultures that give context to our natural world. In places both storied and secret, step into the past and trace the threads of tradition into the future to discover how cultural treasures such as food, art, and music are intertwined with the rhythms of your destination.

When we visit places steeped in human history—whether it’s the indigenous villages of British Columbia or an ancient capital of the Roman empire—a cultural specialist often joins us to interpret everyday customs and help make meaningful connections with the people we meet along the way. They may guide village walks, arrange private concerts and visits to artisan workshops, or simply translate at a local market or festival. In many destinations, we also have robust ‘give back’ initiatives aimed at helping local traditions thrive for generations to come.

Clockwise from top left: Polynesian performers welcome guests ashore; Inuit women put on a throat-singing performance on Baffin Island, Canada; travelers are invited to the Big House of a First Nations village in British Columbia’s Alert Bay.

Visit expeditions.com/terms for complete details about deposits and final payment schedules which may vary by ship.

Travel Protection Plan: We strongly recommend that you take advantage of our Travel Protection Plan. This plan offers comprehensive coverage to protect you from cancellation fees, costs incurred due to trip delays/interruption, medical assistance, and damaged or lost baggage, and provides medical assistance and evacuation during your travels. Our Travel Protection Plan is available for U.S. residents only and may be purchased any time prior to final payment due date. If you are not satisfied for any reason, you may return your plan within 10 days after purchase. Your premium will be refunded if canceled within 10 days, provided you have not already departed on the trip or filed a claim. When so returned, the coverage under the plan is void from the original date of purchase.

Responsibility and Other Terms & Conditions: Certain provisions concerning, among other things, limitations of Lindblad Expeditions' and National Geographic Expeditions' (a division of National Geographic Partners, LLC) liability for loss of property, injury, illness, or death during the voyage will be provided to all guests on the ship's ticket sent prior to departure, and are also available on our website at expeditions.com/terms, or upon request. By registering for a trip, the guest agrees to all such terms and conditions.

Cancellation Policy: Call for details or visit expeditions.com/cancellation-policy. Lindblad Expeditions, LLC is a registered member of the CA Seller of Travel Program #2151120. Registration as a seller of travel does not constitute approval by the State of California. WA Seller of Travel Program #601134845 001 0001.
